Herrmann's Timber-Frame Home Debuts Line of Sansin Enviro-Friendly, Water-Borne Wood Finishes

Curran, Ontario and Strathroy, Ontario, Canada – May 15, 2015 – The Sansin Corporation today announced that Herrmann's Timber-Frame Homes, based in Curran, Ontario, will feature its line of water-borne Enviro Stain wood finishes for exterior and interior wood surfaces.

Open for 13 years, Herrmann's Timber-Frame Homes is now an eastern Ontario-based importer and distributor of sustainable and energy-efficient European building products. They are located at 896 Elizabeth Street, Curran, Ontario, Canada.

“Being located in the Ottawa Valley where extreme summer heat and harsh winter weather takes its toll on exposed wood surfaces, the team at Herrmann's understands that it is crucial to apply high-performing wood finishes such as Sansin Enviro Stains,” says Andreas Herrmann, founder of Herrmann's Timber-Frame Homes. “Since we focus on offering ecological and environmentally responsible building products, we found that the extensive Sansin wood finishing selection would be a great addition.”

Sansin pioneered a water-borne alkyd formula that combines the benefits of both oil and water-based coatings, using water as the vehicle to allow oil to penetrate deep into the wood. Sansin's wood finishes deliver long-lasting durability, easier maintenance and outstanding performance without the toxicity found in conventional stains that contribute to smog and ozone depletion.

“Herrmann's Timber-Frame Homes is passionate about selling only the best products within the timber framed, log and high-end construction industry,” says Sjoerd Bos, Vice President of Sansin. “We are pleased to have them as a new Sansin dealer and customers will appreciate their knowledge and expertise in the log home and building industry.”
