Lasting Wood Protection for Your Deck with Sansin's Low VOC, 2-Coat DEC Stain

—Sansin's new, easy to apply deck stain maintains health and beauty of wood while saving time and money on application—

Knoxville, Tenn. and Strathroy, Ontario, Canada – June 14, 2010 – Sansin Corporation, a leader in researching and developing environmentally-friendly, low VOC interior and exterior wood stains for a quarter century, today announced its rugged 2-Coat DEC™ Formula, a new formulation for deep penetrating, lasting protection of wood decks with less product required.

Sansin 2-Coat DEC™ is an environmentally-friendly wood stain designed to protect old or new cedar, pine, spruce or fir, pressure-treated lumber and exotic hard woods on decks with a formula that deeply penetrates wood, while achieving uniform tone and outstanding color. Where film-build coatings can easily peel and scratch, exposing wood to the elements, 2-Coat DEC™ provides water repellency from rain and lasting protection from UV exposure.

“Sansin continues to develop top of the line, environmentally-friendly wood stains without any compromise on performance and beauty,” said Sjoerd Bos, Vice President at Sansin. “Our 2-Coat DEC deck stain is for customers who want strong and beautiful wood protection, but also appreciate value and simplicity of application.”

With modified natural oils and a water-borne formulation that uses water, not oil, to deliver stain deep into the deck wood, Sansin's 2-Coat DEC™ repels water, yet it does not inhibit evaporation. “By allowing the wood to “breathe” more freely, Sansin's 2-Coat DEC™ lets the wood adjust naturally to moisture levels in the environment, which is critical to the long-term stability and health of deck wood,” pointed out Mr. Bos.

Over time, Sansin's 2-Coat DEC™ stain keeps a deck looking beautiful with just a simple cleaning and maintenance coat. Sansin's 2-Coat DEC™ comes in a range of 79 beautiful colors. Dealers or customers wanting a demo of the product or a 4-oz. sample can call Sansin at 1-877-SANSIN-1.
